

FREE Symposium: 16 March (Sat), all welcome!

Japanese Computer Games and Entertainment

Professor Masayuki Uemura

(Director of the Centre for Japanese Video Game Studies at Ritsumeikan University, Kyoto, Japan, and former Sales Director at Nintendo Kyoto).

“Why was Famicon (Nintendo Entertainment Systems) born in Kyoto, Japan? -- The evolution of Japanese family computer games”

Professor Hiroshi Yoshida

(Graduate School of Core-Ethics and Frontier Sciences, Ritsumeikan University)

“The Aesthetics of Video Games:
What and how do we sense in the game world?”

Dr Brett Mills (FTM)

”The Queen, James Bond, and Mr Bean: Being British and being funny”

Dr Marie-Noelle Guillot (LCS)

“Cross-cultural pragmatics and translation: the case of museum texts as interlingual representation”

Venue: Lecture Theatre 2 (LT2), University of East Anglia (UK)

Time: 12:45-18:00 (opening 12:15)

Enquiries: N.Sato-Rossberg@uea.ac.uk (LCS)

Registration: LCS-symposium@rossberg.net

(To secure your place and refreshments, please register by 10 March!!
Please include your name and contact address.)

Hosted by the School of Language and Communication Studies (organized by Dr Nana Sato-Rossberg) and Supported by the UEA Internationalisation Investment Fund, FTM, CMP, CJS, SISJAC, the Center for Computer Game Studies, and the Graduate School of Core Ethics and Frontier Science at Ritsumeikan University.